Technology Assessment
Overview

How do you prioritize your IT investments? The IES Technology Assessment take a step back from the frenzy of technology and progress to ask the serious question: "How does technology apply to this business?"

A Technology assessment is a deliverable document with value, not just a sales assessment. The process of assessing includes meeting with key personnel to determine both the alignment of current technology investments and how desired future functionality parallels business direction.

The IES Technology Assessment is an excellent tool to better understand the strengths and weaknesses of your current business technology. The technology assessment is a multidisciplinary activity that systematically examines your network infrastructure, security, software architecture and IT business practices.

Our clients understand the benefits of having engineering consultants review the technology they are currently using to support and drive there businesses. The findings and recommendations often result in improved performance, cost effectiveness, security and overall efficiencies.

One of the core differences between IES Group and the competition is our unique combination of IT network engineering and software development engineering. This enables IES Group to provide end to end IT solutions, and a fundamental understanding of the full picture. The competition offers network and security assessments, but IES is the only group to incorporate an assessment of your software architecture!

At a Glance

- Network Infrastructure Assessment.
- Security Assessment
- Software Architecture Assessment
- IT Business Practices Assessment

Key Benefits

- Evaluate systems architecture
- Evaluate systems effectiveness
- Evaluate systems security
- Evaluate systems cost effectiveness
- Evaluate systems processes and related organisational implications
- Improved; performance, cost effectiveness, security and overall efficiencies
- Assessment findings, considerations and recommendations are reviewed in person with our clients
- The IES Technology Assessment is an excellent auditing tool to ensure due diligence and assist with future planning

Why IES Group?

IES Group has over a decade of experience implementing complex IT Solutions empowering quick real time information based decisions.

IES GROUP